One billion. that's the number of hungry people worldwide. The effects are heartbreaking. The causes myriad. Solutions are needed now to feed future generations. In this Hungry Planet series, the UN 's three food agencies – FAO (Food and Agricultural Organization), WFP (World Food Program) and IFAD (International Fund for Agricultural Development) - take us around the globe in search of answers to some of the most pressing questions we face today.

Come and learn how the United Nations is trying to help make future populations around the world healthier and more prosperous in a sustainable way.
